Charlie and Jeff,

I am attaching three drawing of what we intend on doing with our front porch. Basically we would like to recreate the existing with the only change being the railing which I do not have in the drawings as I am not sure which direction we would like to go. At this time I am thinking we would like to make the railings of some sort of wood option. I am also not sure whether we need to follow the historical height of the railing or newer building codes. That would also play a factor in our options.

Thank you,
